Costar Launches New Central Point VMS & Family of Products

Coppell, Texas – June 17, 2019 – Costar Video Systems, a subsidiary of Costar Technologies, Inc. (OTC Markets Group: CSTI), officially announced today a brand-new video management system called Central Point. This powerful new system capitalizes on technology called Central Connect Technology and utilizes many advanced features such as user management, logical grouping, multi-page layout configuration, mapping, event tracking, health status, as well as basic live playback.

Harnessing their years of surveillance experience, Costar has developed a VMS built for a wide spectrum of applications that fit both economical and large-scale projects. Central Connect Technology, the technology created specifically for Central Point, helps create a hassle-free and plug-and-play experience for system integrators. In addition, Costar has also placed emphasis on a feature rich VMS toolset to separate it from similar systems on the market.

Central Point NVRS come with 4, 8, 16, and 32 channel options and fully support a line of easy to install cameras that range from 2MP, 5MP, and 4K. As for Central Point DVRs, these come with 4, 8, and 16 channel options and fully support a range of similar easy to install cameras from 2MP and 4MP with more products and features to come in the future. The hard drives inside each recorder also support RAID recording formats and external storage options if expanded capacity is needed.

“The Central Point platform gives us the flexibility to reach a segment of the market that we have not catered to in the past,” says Jeff Cullop, VP of Product Management. “I’m excited to see where this new offering will lead us.”

Central Point is available to download on Costar’s website for both Windows PC and mobile. For more information about Costar Video Systems, visit www.costarvideo.com.
